

Barrett C. Brown

Leadership from the edge - conscious leaders engaged in complex sustainability initiatives

Barrett works on leader development and complex change. For over 20 years he has supported individuals and organisations to navigate complex challenges and unlock deep capacities. His recent work has involved engaging entire sectors to undergo system-wide development.

Barrett has authored or edited 40+ publications on leadership, sustainability, organizational development, and market transformation and has recently facilitated an executive education program at Nyenrode Business Universiteit in The Netherlands. His home is in California.