

Kajsa Balkfors

Leadership for a new paradigm

Kajsa is a co-founder and former CEO of Circus Cirkör (for 13 years), which tours globally and has its own widely acclaimed education system for training young circus artists. Kajsa has worked with change, communication, development and pioneer organisations through and in arts, business, education and society for the last 15 years.

She is one of Sweden's foremost cultural social entrepreneurs with a background as a political science and communications consultant in organisations like Universum, Investor and Scania. She was instrumental in starting up several companies and nonprofit organizations before she, in her own words, "ran away with the circus" some 10 years ago.

Kajsa has just started her own business where she will transfer her knowledge in human, holistic and sustainable growth as a consultant, and she lives in Sweden.
